FBI arrests Patty Hearst, Harrises

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst and three radical comrades were arrested Thursday, ending one of the longest and most bizarre manhunts in American history.

Almost by chance, FBI agents spied two of Hearst's fellows in the Symbionese Liberation Army jogging on a San Francisco street. William and Emily Harris were taken without a struggle.

Hearst and Wendy Yoshimura, an artist linked to the radical movement, were apprehended about an hour later, taken into custody at an apartment in the city's Mission District.

"Thank God she's all right," Hearst's mother, Catherine, said in a barely audible voice when informed of the captures.

Her husband, Randolph A. Hearst, was in New York on business and said as he boarded a plane for San Francisco, "I am very pleased that things turned out the way they did."

Hearst said that despite the bank robbery charges against his daughter, "I don't think anything will happen on that score; after all she was a kidnap victim, you must remember."

In a crowded courtroom two and one half hours after her arrest, Patty Hearst was arraigned on charges that included bank robbery and federal weapons violations.

Her hair a reddish-brown color, cut in a shag style, the slightly built Hearst listened as the charges against her were read by U.S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff.

She wore tinted glasses and appeared quite pale.

Asked by the judge if her name was Patricia Campbell Hearst, she answered, "Yes."

Hearst was kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4, 1974 by the then-mysterious SLA.

Within two months, she had joined her captors and declared herself a revolutionary.

Patricia Hearst

In addition to federal charges, Hearst and the Harrises face state charges that include kidnaping and robbery.

Asst. Dist. Atty. John Howard in Los Angeles said the three would be brought there next week for arraignment.

William Harris, 30, and Emily, 28, were arraigned after the 21-year-old Hearst was taken from the courtroom.

As he entered the room Harris raised both fists and said loudly, "Hey comrades, keep on truckin'."

Bail for all three was set at $500,000.

Hearst, who at one time posed in military fatigues with an automatic rifle in her hand, wore a mauve-colored long-sleeve shirt, brown jeans and sandals at her arraignment.

As she stood before the magistrate with her attorney, Terrence Hallinan, her arms were folded across her chest.

She had what appeared to be a silver band on the third finger of her left hand.

Prior to Hearst, Yoshimura, 32, was brought before the magistrate.

As she was escorted from the courtroom, she reached over to where Hearst sat at a defense table and squeezed her hand.

Then she was led away to be turned over to authorities in Alameda County, where she faces charges of possession of explosives.

Before the hearing, FBI agent Charles Bates, in charge of the case from the start, said, "This effectively puts an end to everybody we know who was in the SLA. He held out the possibility of further arrests in the case, however."

After six of her comrades died in a shootout with Los Angeles police, Patty sent a tape in which she mourned their deaths, reviled the establishment and swore never to return to her family, whom she called "pigs."

Charged with bank robbery and violation of federal firearms laws, which could mean life imprisonment if she is convicted, Hearst became a fugitive.

Lawson may lose open house

By Debbie Pearson

Lawson Hall Thursday failed to get the necessary two-thirds majority vote to pass seven-day-a-week 24-hour open house and will be voting again Monday.

However, Stevenson Hall Thursday approved seven-day-a-week 24-hour open house which will go into effect as soon as it is approved by the Housing Office, Erich Herbst, Stevenson Hall president, said Thursday night.

Lawson Hall President Julie Bowen said after the vote results were in Thursday night that she did not want "to go on the record guessing" why the vote turned out as it did.

In Lawson Hall, residents had three housing options to choose from, Bowen said.

Twenty-four hour round-the-clock visitation option brought 272 votes in Lawson, while 199 Lawson residents voted to keep the open house hours the same as they have been in the past.

Eight residents did not want any open house at all.

To have passed the round-the-clock visitation option Lawson would have needed 334 votes in favor out of the total dorm residency of 501.

At Stevenson Hall, residents voted 291 to 15 in favor of 24-hour round-the-clock visitation with 70 students not voting at all.

Herbst said that efforts were made to get around to all of the suites in the hall to remind Stevenson residents that they had to vote.

The large number of students who did not vote at all in Stevenson was attributed to the large number of upperclassmen "who probably have night classes or something," Herbst said.

He also mentioned that many Stevenson residents thought they already had 24-hour open house or were sure it would pass.

Herbst said he would advise Lawson residents to approve the open house option floor by floor in corridor meetings so "that they can say the whole dorm passed it."

All dorms must approve an open house option before Oct. 1.

Business dean backs changes

The School of Business was restructured to help cut costs and improve chances for accreditation, Dean Tom Jones told a group of about 100 business students and faculty members Thursday.

Jones summarized "in a nutshell" short and long range plans for the school and fielded questions for about an hour in an open forum in the Buzzard Educational Building auditorium.

"The real interaction" between the newly consolidated departments "will be strengthened" by the restructure, which also eliminated the need to pay another department chairperson and secretary, Jones said.

The school was reorganized from four departments into three.

Jones said 11 new teachers, nine of whom hold doctorates, were hired to bolster the business staff and also entice accreditors, who partly base their evaluations on the number of Ph.Ds in a school. The school is currently accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, but, Jones said, is working for accreditation by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB).

Several students questioned Jones' judgment in hiring Ph.Ds, claiming that they were in some cases teaching classes for which they were not qualified.

However, Jones said he preferred teachers with Ph.Ds who have proven their research skills and have a general background in all facets of business rather than teachers for specific classes.

Jones also denied rumors that teachers with tenure, but not Ph.Ds, were being pressured with heavy work loads saying "we're not faced with that problem."

A resident of Stevenson Tower casts her ballot in Thursday's open house vote in which Stevenson approved the round the clock visitation option. After a forum Wednesday night Lawson Hall was unable to get the needed two-thirds majority vote for any of the options. See story on the open house forum on page 3.

BOG okays $2.55 million Eastern capital budget request

By Barry Smith

The Board of Governors (BOG) Thursday approved Eastern's capital budget request of $2.55 million for fiscal year 1977 and granted permission for Eastern to request the release of this fiscal year's capital budget funds.

Both requests will be heard by the Board of Higher Education (BHE) "immediately," Martin Schaefer, vice president for administrative affairs, said Thursday.

The request for the release of $322,000, the capital budget for fiscal year 1976, from the Capital Development Board, a state agency which oversees distribution of building funds, will probably come in about two weeks, Schaefer said.

A series of meetings between BHE members and university officials will be held to discuss priority for 1977 budget items and no action is expected before December, Schaefer said.

Included in the 1977 request was $1.21 million for remodeling the Buzzard Educational Building, $814,000 for remodeling Old Main, $70,300 for a security addition and $210,000 for the life science greenhouse.

The remodeling of Old Main will take place primarily on the second and third floors for the Mathematics Department, Harry Read, director of information, said Thursday.

The fiscal 1976 money will also go towards remodeling costs for Old Main and bringing other buildings up to Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) safety requirements.

Over half of that request—$163,000 for the remodeling of Booth Library—had already been okayed, Schaefer said, but will still be sent through the proper channels.

$50,000 was budgeted in the 1977 capital budget request for OSHA requirements, plus $45,000 for chemistry lab remodeling, $6,000 for psychology lab remodeling, $100,000 for the Fine Arts Center and $25,000 for physical plant storage.

The BOG approved a total capital budget for the five schools it governs of $37.66 million, the exact amount requested.

Budget requests approved were from Governors State University, $14 million; Northeastern Illinois University, $10.6 million; Western Illinois University, $9 million and Chicago State University, $767,000.

Eastern had requested about $4 million for its capital budget for fiscal year 1976, but was cut almost $2 million by the BOG and then cut to the $322,000 figure by the General Assembly.

State collective bargaining proposal called 'anti-faculty' by AAUP officer

By Lori Miller

Martha Friedman, president of the Illinois conference of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) spoke Wednesday on AAUP opposition to a bill currently in the Illinois house concerning collective bargaining.

Friedman appeared at the first meeting of the Eastern chapter of the AAUP.

Friedman said that, although there are currently seven bills in the Illinois state legislature concerning collective bargaining, only one, house bill 2074, directly affects university faculty.

"No collective bargaining bill in the United States goes as far as this one in giving management (administration) power over faculty," Friedman said.

Friedman cited the "management rights" clause as one of the main reasons for AAUP opposition to the bill.

"This clause delivers powers to the administration that before had been reserved to the faculty," Friedman said.

"For example, under this bill, the administration could have the power to appoint department chairmen, instead of the department itself electing them," she continued.

Friedman also objected to the lack of role definition for faculty in the bill.

Friedman also spoke against system-wide collective bargaining.

Other organizations on campus who are vying to become the collective bargaining agent for Eastern are the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) and the National Education Association. The AFT is in favor of system-wide bargaining

Lawson residents discuss problems with open house

By Mickey Rendok

For almost one and one-half hours Wednesday night, approximately 80 Lawson residents debated the round-the-clock visitation option which was voted on Thursday.

The primary argument against the approval of open house was that it would add to the problem of unescorted males and men in the women's bathrooms.

One resident said that she did not feel that there were necessarily going to be more men on the floors during the week than on the typical weekends, but that they would simply be staying later.

The situation of roommate privacy was also argued by numerous residents.

Julie Bowen, Lawson Hall president said, "Roommate courtesy works both ways and has to be worked out between them."

Ron Wilson, former Residence Hall Associate president said, "You could name numerous problems that could develop, but isn't now a good time to learn how to handle different situations while you have resident or graduate assistant around for help?"

Lawson Hall was given the open house option in return for giving up their top floor as a dry floor by President Gilbert C. Fite.

Bowen read a list of three proposals to the group before leaving the floor open to discussion.

The proposals to be included on the ballot, similar to those passed by Thomas Hall, were, 24-hour, seven-day-a-week open house; the present visitation policy and no open house at all.

If passed, the results will go to the Housing Office for final approval.

Bowen said that even if the proposal passes, the option will only be effective on a trial basis for one year.

If numerous problems do arise, Bowen said, it may be necessary to cancel the policy.

Open house hours are to be voted on every year according to guidelines set up by the RHA.

"What we are asking you," Bowen said, "is for suggestions in enforcing needed rules without putting all of the responsibility on the staff."

Bowen said that as far as she was concerned, the objections did not seem valid.

One resident complained that she was informed prior to this fall semester that Lawson Hall residents would be given the option for open house.

Betty Clark, Lawson Hall executive council member, said that such information was mailed with the housing contracts to the residents and that it was the responsibility of the individuals to read them.

The 24 hour open-house policy passed by the required two thirds vote in Thomas Hall has already gone into effect.

Teachers should have collective bargaining

There is a definite possibility that the teams in the National Football League will go out on strike.

Police and firemen around the nation have gone on strike. San Francisco most recently felt the effects of having the majority of its police force walk off the job.

In Danville, Ill. garbage men went out on strike allowing the refuse to pile up or forcing people to be their own garbage men.

Across the state and nation, teachers of our high school and grade school kids have refused to report to the classrooms over such issues as money and class sizes.

Eastern even felt its own strike in the fall of 1973 when the civil service workers went out.

What do all these groups have in common?

They are all professions which perform a public service and which, in the minds of many people, should not be allowed to strike.

They perform too vital a service is the argument for making laws which would prohibit firemen, policemen or teachers from striking for higher wages or better working conditions.

This type of thinking is erroneous.

While it is true that these groups do perform services necessary to the smooth functioning of any community, they have as much right to get a decent living wage as steelworkers, airline stewardesses or longshoremen.

If striking is the only way they can have their demands met, then strike they should. There have to be limitations of course so that one side doesn't completely dominate the other, but there's people have to have some recourse if they feel they are getting a raw deal from their management.

There is on campus, and within the Board of Governors (BOG) system, a movement to establish some form of collective bargaining, that is some form of unionization.

If this plan is accepted by the BOG, teachers will have the right to bargain as a group for wages, class sizes and working conditions.

Such a plan should be accepted.

Sure, teachers should be in the business with the main idea of helping people, of trying to educate the "minds of tomorrow." But that's no reason why they should not have the right to get what they want, and in some cases deserve, the same as everyone else.

Hunters should have more protection from man-eating rabbits

WASHINGTON—I'd never seen Remington, my gun-loving friend, so angry.

"Did you see that show they did on CBS called the 'Guns of Autumn' about hunting in the United States?"

"Yes, I did and it left a deep impression on me," I said. "The thought of those helpless hunters setting out to shoot ferocious deer and man-eating rabbits was almost too much to bear. I was on the side of the hunter."

"All he had to protect himself with was a shotgun or a rifle while the animals had the protection of their speed, their claws, their teeth and their intimate knowledge of the forest. You would think a country as great as ours would find ways of killing animals without stacking the odds against the poor guy with a gun."

Remington said, "The show made us look like damn fools. They showed all the worst aspects of hunting animals and none of the good things that go with the sport."

"I noticed that," I agreed. "It seems to me CBS went out of its way to depict how cruel game shooting was. I wrote them a letter and told them I thought that if they show what a man can do to a bear, they should also show what a bear can do to a man."

"It would have been much more balanced if there were a few scenes showing a bear tearing a hunter limb from limb. I would have enjoyed that."

"Well, we fixed them," Remington said. "We scared every advertiser from sponsoring the show. When you mess with the hunters in America, you're messing with the National Rifle Assn. And when they start putting pressure on advertisers, there isn't a company in the United States that will defy the gun lobby."

"Thank God for the NRA," I said. "If it weren't for their members, you would now have buffalo herds grazing on Fifth Avenue."

"What got me," said Remington, "was how biased the documentary was."

"They didn't show any of the pleasure people get out of hunting—the camaraderie and fellowship that the sport produces, the joy of walking in the woods early in the morning stalking an elk or sitting in a blind waiting to blast away at a flock of ducks. That's what hunting is all about. All they emphasized was the slaughter of the birds and animals. I don't call that balanced journalism."

"It isn't," I assured Remington. "If I were doing such a show, I would film the human side of hunting."

"I would show the love of man for his gun; a love greater than he has for even his own family."

"I would depict the sacrifices a hunter has to make to pursue this age-old sport where a man must pit his wits against the wildest animals in the forest."

"I would show the patience and perseverance that it takes to shoot just one pheasant in the back or one doe in the head."

"What people don't realize who watch such a show is it takes more than the desire to kill wildlife. It takes skill, brains and heart. That, to me, is where the show failed."

"You know we're asking for equal time to answer the documentary," Remington said. "We're going to state our side of the case in no uncertain terms."

"I hope you've sold it to sponsors," I said.

"We will. There isn't a company in America that would refuse to advertise on a program giving the hunters' side of the story."

"I wish I had a large company. I'd buy time on the show," I said.

"You know something," Remington said, "I think the Commies are behind the whole thing."

"But Tito hunts," I said.

"Sure, the Commie big shots hunt, but they would love to see hunting stopped in the United States. If they could turn Americans against hunting game, it would be the first step in a Red takeover of the United States."

"I guess you're right," I told Remington. "In a few years there wouldn't be a marksman left in America, and we'd all be left naked."

Remington looked at me suspiciously. "I thought you were against hunting."

"I am not," I replied. "As long as something gives people pleasure and you don't hurt anything, I say shoot."

'Deep Throat' first porno film that got into acting, story line

"Deep Throat" is one film that has stirred more furor than perhaps any other.

Linda Lovelace became an overnight household word. Her deep-rooted tricks of the trade were making her the talk of the town.

It is perhaps time to put this historical film into a proper or more fitting perspective.

Moving pictures first appeared just prior to the turn of the century. No sooner did they get started than Thomas Edison made the first erotic film.

Brian Gregory

It was appropriately called "The Kiss" and consisted of nothing more than a man and a woman embracing lip to lip.

The early 1900's passed by with D.W. Griffith (the father of modern motion pictures) depicting such classical history as the "orgy." In a subsequent study of this man, it was brought out that in such an orgy as was depicted in "Intolerance," what looked as a staged event was real.

Censorship was on the rise. This caused the professionals to give up their desire to depict realistic sexuality. These professionals picked up on violence, but that's an entirely different study.

There began an underground movement that (See LINDA, page 5)

Linda Lovelace' first film was a novelty among porno movies

specialized in such details. These early pornographers photographed nude women running around. This type of film was known as the "nudie."

These were closely followed with the successful and well-known "stag-film." Stags were a little racy—they included males as well as females. There was a hint of sex but rarely much else.

Commercially speaking, the first films of this nature to break into the public light were the early X-raters. These were nothing more than R-rated films of today.

The "loop" was then expanded into a longer film that became known as the triple X feature. Artistically speaking, the camera was turned on until the film ran out, reloaded, and let to run again.

So what does this have to do with "Deep Throat?" "Deep Throat" was a revolutionary new porno film. Gerard Damiano (director of "Deep Throat") decided that adding a plot and some humor could change the entire face and audience of the porno film. He was right.

Today in the post "Deep Throat" era, it is not uncommon to see very sophisticated attempts at making good film with the inclusion of explicit sex.

Seeing "Deep Throat" the other night made me wonder what it was like to see the film before all the publicity.

To say the least, I should have been impressed. Instead there was much disappointment and boredom. I sat expecting something unbelievable. It never occurred.

With the market now filled with better and semingly "dirtier" film, it is hard to understand the full over this particular film.

The sixties brought a new entry referred to as the "loop". This was nothing more than a one reel shoddy peeping-timmish film that very graphically depicted the sex act.

For someone who has never seen a triple-X flick, it might be different.

I hate to think that the people who consistently go to these films are enlightened. I see these films as an end in themselves. Soon there will be only a few theaters specializing in these movies. The shows they will present will have to be much more sophisticated than the level that is presently available.

Stamps to increase 3 cents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service said it moved Thursday to increase the cost of a first-class stamp from 10 to 13 cents, effective shortly after Christmas.

The proposal, filed with the Postal Rate Commission, also would increase on a temporary basis the cost of a postcard from eight to 10 cents.

The proposed increases in first-class mail, postcards and other classes of mail would provide the Postal Service with an additional $2.4 billion yearly in revenue, a spokesperson said.

In its rate increase request, the Postal Service said it currently is losing money at the rate of $2.6 billion a year, despite the new rates implemented Sept. 14 that made permanent the 10-cent first-class stamp.

Other proposed increases for each major rate category are:

—Regular second-class mail, 22.1 per cent.

—Third-class bulk rate regular mail, 23.9 per cent.

—Parcel post, 10.1 per cent.

—Special rate parcels, 21.1 per cent.

—The Postal Service also requested increasing the cost of the current 13-cent air mail stamp from 13 cents to 17 cents.

But officials pointed out that current upgrading of first-class mail to air-mail status, expected to be completed by Oct. 11, would make purchase of air-mail stamps of little value.

The Postal Service also said it intends to raise fees for special services and international mail rates, averaging from 34 per cent to 100 per cent.

Special services include special delivery letters and registered mail.

CAA vetoes new Liberal Arts-Sciences course

By Sandy Pietrzak

A motion to approve a new arts and sciences course was defeated by the Council on Academic Affairs (CAA) Thursday in the Arcola-Tuscola Room.

Staff shortage and general doubt as to whether the material presented would be taught adequately were the basic arguments killing the proposal.

The proposed course, "Introduction to the Liberal Arts and Liberal Sciences," was presented to the council by Paul Kirby of the Foreign Languages Department.

The program was to be presented as an inter-disciplinary course in which a number of courses would be integrated and experts in the various fields would be invited to lecture for brief periods.

The courses involved would have included social studies, the humanities and mathematics and science viewed in respect to man's achievements in these fields.

Kirby noted that students would not be taught the subjects but would be taught about the subjects had the course been approved.

Proposed new courses in adult education were tabled until the CAA meeting next week.

Durkin election may force reassignments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The committee assignments of seven Republican senators could be upset by the election of Democrat John A. Durkin as the new senator from New Hampshire.

With the addition of Durkin, the Democrats now outnumber the Republicans 62-38. With 62 per cent of 100 senators, the Democrats are entitled to the same party ratio on committees.

The chief impact could be on the Foreign Relations Committee.

No decision yet in appeal of Whitt's End closing

By Carl Green

The Whitt's End liquor license case appeal is now in its fifth month of deliberation and no decision is expected until at least October.

The appeal, which was filed after a previous appeal to the Illinois Liquor Control Commission was denied, was originally filed by Whitt's End owner Jim Whitt and his attorney John Muller on Sept. 7, 1974.

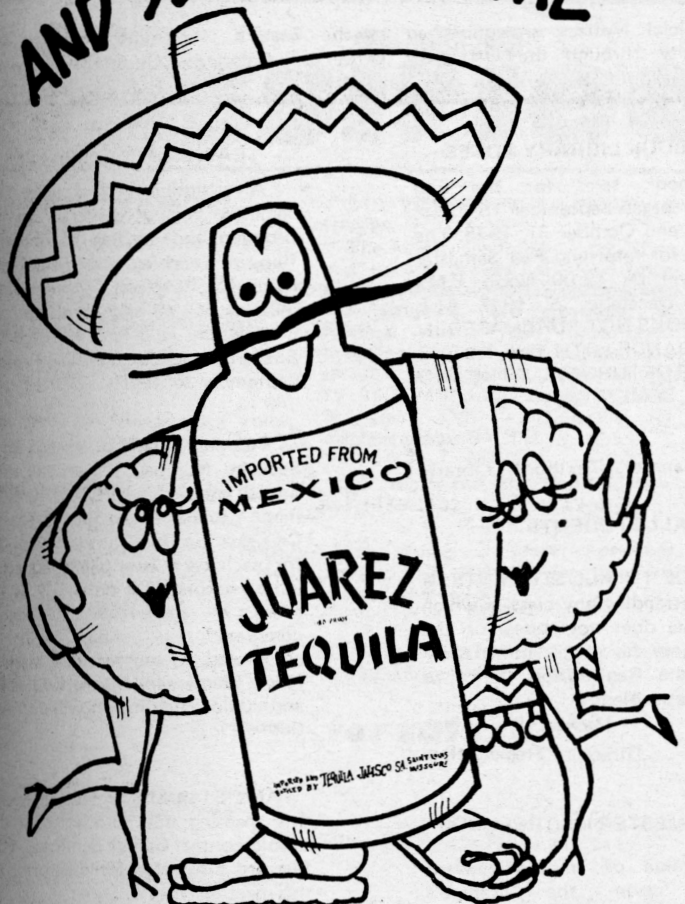

The hearing for the appeal was completed May 5, but presiding Coles County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Burke failed to announce a decision before going on vacation.

"There is absolutely nothing happening on the Whitt's case right now," Tony Sunderman, Charleston City Attorney who represented co-defendants Robert Hickman, Charleston mayor and Liquor Control Commissioner, and the Illinois Liquor Control Commission, said Tuesday.

Burke is not scheduled to return until Sept. 29, at the soonest, said Jean Courtney, a secretary in the Circuit Court office, which means that no decision can come out until October.

Triad greeter candidate allowed to compete despite late petition

A decision to allow Gregg Triad greeter candidate Cindy Warren to participate in the greeter competition was made Tuesday at the greeter elections committee meeting, Julie Humphrey, co-chairman said Wednesday.

The committee is in charge of election rules, petitions, informing candidates on election regulations and taking ballots at the election.

Due to a lack of communication with the Homecoming committee, the Triad did not hold elections until Monday turning in their ballots after the deadline Monday morning.

Humphrey said that no one organization could be blamed because there was much confusion on campus as to whether there would be greeter candidates at all this year.

State tax increase for education expected

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)- The increasing cost of education will most likely force a state tax increase within three years, State School Supt. Joseph M. Cronin said Thursday.

And, the chief school officer said most of Gov. Daniel Walker's reduction of some $140 million in the budget passed by the General Assembly for state aid to schools this year should be sustained.

"I don't think the money is there," Cronin told a news conference. "I believe state government has to be responsible and avoid a deficit."

Soccer squad ready for clash with UMSL

By Dave Shanks

Following what Panther coach Fritz Teller deemed a "good week of practice," the Eastern soccer team will journey to St. Louis Saturday to take on always powerful University of Missouri-St. Louis (UMSL).

The Panthers had a "good scrimmage" Wednesday, Teller noted, as he said the first team offense went against the first team defense with the offense overloaded by two men.

In that scrimmage, Teller said the team "covered pretty well and moved the ball quite effectively."

All week Teller said that Panthers worked on being sure of who to take on defense and have been correcting errors on placements for corner kicks and defensive wall alignments.

Working on more of an offensive threat has also been on the Panther agenda this week, Teller said.

The UMSL Rivermen, who shutout Eastern last Parents' Weekend on three first half goals, will be minus three time

All-American Kevin Missey who graduated last year.

In addition to Missey, the Rivermen lost five other starters, including their goalie.

The Rivermen finished the 1974 season with a 6-5-2 record. They were defeated by Western 2-1 in the first game of the Midwest Regional tournament.

This season, the Rivermen have been starting some freshmen and juniors to support their junior college transfer goalie.

Bolstering the Rivermen at the link positions will be Mark LaGrand and Mark Dorsey, both seniors.

Last year's leading scorer Ted O'Neal, who recorded nine goals for the Rivermen with one assist, will be back in the UMSL lineup.

The Rivermen have played two regular season games thus far and have recorded one victory and one tie.

The victory, a 4-2 decision over St. Louis University, one of the top soccer teams in the nation, came after two overtime periods.

UMSL got off to a quick advantage over St. Louis by scoring a goal at the 40-second mark of the opening period.

The Rivermen tied Benedictine 1-1 in their other game.

Teller said that this year's Panthers are "more ready to go" than they were at this time last year. "We've had a year to play together, something we didn't have last year.

"We're better set defensively and I hope we can control their offensive threat," Teller said noting that a team which can score four goals against national power St. Louis University must have a good offense.

The Panthers are "mentally ready. We're convinced we're good team and that they'll (UMSL) have to beat us.

"We're prepared to go out and give an all-out effort," Teller said.

Owen Hylton, who started at the wing position for the Panthers in their 2-0 victory over Aurora College Saturday, is nursing a bruised knee, Teller said, while Terry Murphy is suffering from a sprain which "hasn't seemed to bother him too much," Teller noted.

Leonard "Chicken" Mason, who did not play in the Aurora due to a knee problem, has "had a good week of practice," Teller said, and should be ready for action against the Rivermen in their 1:30 p.m. tussle.

Field hockey team collides with SIU

The Eastern women's field hockey team travels to Carbondale Saturday to compete in a triangular meet against Southern Illinois University (SIU) and Principia. Each school will be entering two teams in the competition with the number one teams from each school playing each other and the number two teams doing likewise.

Eastern's number one team plays SIU at 9 a.m. and Principia at 11:30 a.m. while the number two squad squares off with SIU at 10 a.m. and with Principia at 1:30 p.m.

Coach Helen Riley seemed confident Tuesday that her team would be able to defeat both schools.

"If Sunday's showing is any indication of how good we can play, we should be able to come out on top. (Eastern defeated Central Illinois 3-0.) I'm still optimistic about the contests though," she said.

Harriers put win skein on line

By Glenn Lyle

Illinois State will provide the opposition for the Eastern cross-country team when they travel to Bloomington Friday for a 3:30 p.m. match.

Eastern's distance runners will be going for their 24th straight dual meet victory this Friday. Ironically, Illinois State was the last team to whip the Panthers in a dual match.

Kip Smith, the 1975 Illinois state high school mile champ, joins the Redbirds along with three freshman.

Eastern coach Tom Woodall reported that the three freshmen "had very good times in high school."

Woodall added that "they have a very strong team."

Under a new ruling only nine men can participate in away meets.

"The guys who ran well against Northwestern will compete," Woodall said. But he has not yet made the final decision.

Eastern top runner, Mike Larson, is suffering from a strained achilles tendon, which bothered him in his last race.

"We are still watching his tendon and giving it a good rest," Woodall said.

He said that as of now Larson "will definitely run," adding "he's a real competitor."

The Panthers won last year's meet 20-39, with Larson and Rick Livesy tying for first and Ken Burke finishing third.

The race will be run at the Horton Golf Course in Bloomington.

Panthers hold football intersquad scrimmage

Head Coach John Konstantinos said Thursday that the Panther football squad will hold a scrimmage at 4:10 p.m. Friday on O'Brien Field.

The scrimmage will be open to the public, Konstantinos said adding, "We wanted the students to see the team in action before the first home game."

In other football news, senior John Beccue, who was injured in last Saturday's contest, underwent successful knee surgery Thursday in Champaign.

Beccue, who is a two year letterman, will be lost from the Eastern roster for the remainder of the season.

NFL teams will play

By The Associated Press

The five striking National Football League teams agreed Thursday to return to work as the latest strife to hit the NFL was ended following a marathon 13-hour negotiating session and a five-hour meeting with the New England Patriots.

Randy Vataha, player representative of the Patriots, emerged from a long session Thursday afternoon in Foxboro, Mass., to say that federal mediator W.J. Usery Jr. had convinced the club, which started the walkout, to play this Sunday and await a contract offer from the management on Monday.

Volleyball entries due

Entries for co-recreational volleyball competition are due at the Intramural Office by 5 p.m. Friday.

Off-campus groups, fraternities, sororities and residence hall students are encouraged to form teams for the net game.

Square dancers to meet

Anyone interested in joining the Square Dancing Club should attend the event at 6:30 p.m. on Mondays in McAfee Gymnasium.

The club is being conducted by Robert Hussey, who is a folk and square dance specialist.

Settin' it up

Eastern volleyball member Diann Schrader goes to her knees in order to keep the ball in play during Wednesday's practice in McAfee Gym. The women travel to Macomb Saturday to participate in a quadrangular meet hosted by Western Illinois.
